Google Cloud Health Check

Set Your Cloud Environment Up for Success

When left unoptimized, cloud architecture and services can lead to serious budget and business hurdles — including misallocated resources, project clutter, overburdened IT staff, and in some cases, higher security risks.

Join Promevo for a Cloud Health Check, where our certified Google Cloud Architects will assess the status of your cloud infrastructure, bringing cost and resource inefficiencies to light as well as providing best practices and an implementation roadmap to set your cloud environment up for success.

What You Get With Promevo

Phase 1
Consultation

We'll start by meeting with you and your team to review the process and discuss what you'll need to set up on your end.

Phase 2
Configuration

Your team will set up account access and configure your environment so that we can run the health check.

Phase 3
Implementation

One of our cloud architects will perform a comprehensive assessment of your cloud environment.

Phase 4
Review

Our Cloud Architect will compile the results of the assessment in a report and present it to your team.

Phase 5
Planning

Our team will provide a roadmap and an implementation plan to help resolve any health check findings and set your team up for success.

Why Promevo?

We don’t just demo tools for technologists – we’re looking at your entire team, your business functions, and how this actually plugs in. Don't let your Gemini Enterprise licenses sit idle. Let's activate your workforce together.

We are people-people, too. We can coach your team, adapt to your needs, and help you build a real foundation for a real migration. Promevo works closely with Google to deliver workshops that help you move forward with clarity, not guesswork.
