

When left unoptimized, cloud architecture and services can lead to serious budget and business hurdles — including misallocated resources, project clutter, overburdened IT staff, and in some cases, higher security risks.

Join Promevo for a Cloud Health Check, where our certified Google Cloud Architects will assess the status of your cloud infrastructure, bringing cost and resource inefficiencies to light as well as providing best practices and an implementation roadmap to set your cloud environment up for success.

What You Get With Promevo

Phase 1: Consultation

We'll start by meeting with you and your team to review the process and discuss what you'll need to set up on your end.

Phase 3: Implementation

One of our cloud architects will perform a comprehensive assessment of your cloud environment.

Phase 5: Planning

Our team will provide a roadmap and an implementation plan to help resolve any health check findings and set your team up for success.

Phase 2: Configuration

Your team will set up account access and configure your environment so that we can run the health check.

Phase 4: Review

Our Cloud Architect will compile the results of the assessment in a report and present it to your team.
