Google has added its generative AI assistant, Gemini, to most Google Workspace subscriptions, welcoming thousands of organizations into the world of gen AI.

While multiple reports including a 2024 study by McKinsey show the measurable benefits of AI in terms of productivity and cost savings, your organization may not have been ready to adopt Gemini. Or maybe you were already considering AI but now you' need support to deploy it strategically.

Promevo has helped hundreds of companies successfully implement and adopt AI through our Gemini for Google Workspace Deployment Workshops. See how working hand-in-hand with our Google-certified team can help you develop a comprehensive AI deployment plan and set your organization up for success.

The Promevo Approach

Phase 1: Planning & Preparation

We collaborate with your key stakeholders to define a deployment strategy, develop a communication plan, and curate training materials.

Phase 3: User Adoption & Support

Our team provides hands-on training, internal messaging, and a library of support resources to promote user engagement with Gemini.

Phase 2: Configuration & Goal Setting

We schedule sessions with participants and conduct a pre-workshop survey to gauge the group's current understanding of AI-powered collaboration.

Phase 4: Measurement & Optimization

We gather feedback, monitor user activity, and refine support resources to identify potential areas of improvement and optimize user experience.

Throughout these workshops, we apply our Change Management methodology.
